Labor Moves to Organize Workers on Relief Projects

Vancouver - Plans for the city-wide mass meeting are being made, led by the organizers for the new strike of the longshoremen. An effort will be made to include all unionized and non-unionized workers in public works projects.

The first mass meeting of the waterfront strike will be held tonight in South Park. Afterwards the workers will move to the Rectory of the Sacred Heart, where the Catholic Worker's columns will be held.

In the meantime, the strike committee of the South Park Strike has already begun organizing the workers. They have held meetings in South Park, which are attended by workers from all the waterfront. They have also begun circulating a petition among the workers to support the strike.

The workers are determined to fight for their rights and will not accept any interference from the employers. They believe that they have the backing of the community and will continue to fight until victory is theirs.

H. R. SEIDEN BILL A BLOW AT LABOR SAYS CONGRESSMAN

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Hitting labor pressure is being called upon to pass an amendment to the H. R. 313, which is being held by the House Committee on Ways and Means, the House Ways and Means Committee on Thursday, as was reported by the New York Times.

The House Committee on Ways and Means is currently considering the bill. It is reported that the amendment is likely to pass, although the final vote will not be taken until after the conference committee has finished its work.

The amendment is intended to reduce the amount of federal aid available to states and local governments for public works projects. The bill passed the House earlier this year with strong support from labor and other progressive groups, but the Senate defeated it on a close vote, forcing the conference committee to start over.

The amendment is expected to be controversial, with labor and other progressive groups opposing it and business and conservative groups favoring it. The final vote will likely be held this week, and labor leaders are hopeful that the amendment will not be included in the final version of the bill.

McGrady Sets Up 'Peace Board' to Prevent Strikes

The first meeting of the 'Peace Board' was held in Chicago yesterday, and it was announced that the board will be established in all the large cities of the country. The board is composed of representatives of labor and management, and its purpose is to prevent strikes and other labor disturbances.

House Committee Protests Gov't's Anti-Labor Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C.—House Democrats yesterday protested the anti-labor bill, which was introduced by the Republican-dominated House. The bill seeks to outlaw the closed shop and to restrict the right of unions to strike.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Harry Seidens, R-Ill., and is supported by the Republican majority in the House.

The Democrats charge that the bill is an attack on labor and on the right of workers to organize and strike. They also note that the bill is similar to measures introduced in previous sessions of Congress, and that it has been repeatedly defeated.

The bill is expected to be considered by the House Labor Committee, and then by the full House. It is possible that the bill will be voted on before the end of the session.

To the Ladies... ORGANIZE AUXILIARIES

By E. O. SANJ

It is not by great oratory that the significance of the National Women's Auxiliary has been established. The Auxiliary is not a union or a labor organization in the conventional sense, but it is a combination of women who, as individuals, are members of the International Seamen's Union of North America.

Women have always been members of the International Seamen's Union of North America, but it is through the women's auxiliary that the International has begun its organized national activities. The Auxiliary, which was organized in 1937, has grown and flourished in recent years, and it is now an integral part of the International. It is a source of pride and inspiration to the members of the International, and it is a testament to the strength and power of women in the struggle for justice and freedom.

Women have always been a part of the International, and the Auxiliary is a way for women to be a part of the Union. It is a way for women to be a part of the struggle for justice and freedom, and it is a way for women to be a part of the International. It is a way for women to be a part of the Union, and it is a way for women to be a part of the struggle for justice and freedom.
