POLICY FOR COMING YEAR ADOPTED
San Pedro—After more than two weeks of bitter discussion, the 29th annual convention of the Pacific Coast District of the I. L. A. came to an abrupt end. Although differences have been joined by officers for the district for the coming year, which will take place among the local and branch officers, the spirit of helpfulness, mutual manhood, and everyday unselfishness which has pervaded the convention and characterized the officers of the district, will be carried on to the members in the coming year, according to the resolutions of the convention, which were adopted with the following officers nominated for their respective districts:

RANK AND FILE OPINION

We take this opportunity in the event that we received an enthusiastic qualified support for the action throughout the South and in the east.

Many things have happened during the past weeks that would be interesting to relate. However, the Time has come to present our position in a more positive light. We know that our workers are fighting for their rights, and we will continue to stand by them until the last man is won.

When the crew of the Commodore received a message about the necessity of limiting the time they were working, they immediately contacted the National Maritime Federation. The Commodore is a 200-foot vessel owned by the National Maritime Federation, and the workers were determined to protect their rights.

The Commodore was docked in New York City, and the workers met with representatives from the National Maritime Federation. They discussed the situation and came to a mutual agreement.

The Commodore was able to recompense the men for the time they had been working, and the workers were satisfied with the outcome.

In conclusion, we are proud to support the workers in their fight for their rights. We believe that it is essential to protect the rights of all workers, and we will continue to stand by them until the last man is won.

D. C. NO. 2, MARITIME FEDERATION OF THE PACIFIC COAST TO THE UNION RECREATION CENTER

An important Trade-Union project to further cement the unity of all members of the Maritime Federation.

VOICE OF THE FEDERATION

Two floors of equipment will make center tops in United States

Modern in every detail, and fully equipped to take care of all members of the maritime community, the Recreation Center opens shortly at 32 Clay Street, is considered the best in the world. It takes up two full floors.

The main floor is a spacious gymnasium and basketball hall, with a hard wood floor, and a roomy locker room for all types of exercising. There is a large room for bowling, a pool room, and a small room for table games.

The second floor is filled with good books, The Voice of the Federation is prominently displayed in the Reading Room.

Best wishes on this important venture on the part of the Maritime Federation.

SHIP SUBSIDIES BILL UP

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Eisenhower has asked Congress to amend a provision of the Labor-Management Act which would have held the Maritime Federation, the last big labor organization, liable for back wages and other sums owed to workers when it became a large labor union.

The antitrust laws of the U. S. and the antitrust laws of the States have been used against labor organizations as well as against business organizations.

However, the Maritime Federation, like other labor organizations, would be entitled to protection against such charges of racketeering and the collection of back wages under the provisions of the Labor-Management Act which was passed by Congress in 1947.

LABOR HISTORY IN THE MAKING

The eyes of the labor movement of America today are focused upon the Pacific Coast, where two conventions of maritime labor are taking place. One, the convention of the International Longshoremen's Association, Pacific Coast District, is just winding up its business, and the convention of all longshore, harbor and harbor labor, the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, is opening.

With the I. L. A. Convention terminating, and many progressive issues on the agenda, the convention representing the Maritime Federation will now endeavor to set before the labor movement a single policy for the Federation for the coming year. Issues that have faced maritime unions for the past year will be given over, and the program set aside to adjust the membership of the Federation to that of the future.

Bob out of the 1934 strike of the maritime worker to eliminate the oppression and exploitation of the past 14 years forced upon them by their employers, the labor leaders, the Maritime Federation of the Pacific coast has established a record of which any group of men can be proud. Concessions have been gained, mistakes have been made, but one outstanding factor has been completely demonstrated. The strength and unity of the membership of the maritime unions and their ability to fight and stand together, on the principles, which is democratic control by the MEMBERSHIP.

There is no doubt that the central organizations completing the Maritime Federation will emerge from this convention with such a program worked out that it will withstand all attempts to break the rank and file through the organization of a compact UNRELASTABLE BODY OF WORKERS.

And THEN, THE DELEGATES TO THE CONVENTION WILL FILE, WHO REALLY ARE THE BACKBONE OF THE MARITIME UNIONIZATION OF THE PACIFIC COAST, ARE CONSIDERED.
