Union Labor Demonstrates Power--Solidarity

Japanese Invade Alaska Fisheries; Unions Hard Hit By Pressure Of Cheap Coolie Competition

Treasurable Alliance of American and Japanese Fishing Interests: Dealing Blow to Unions Standards of Alaska Fishermen and Maritime Workers.

By HARRY STUHR

American fishermen are fighting against getting sea Asiatic competition. This is true in both the factory and the harbor. The Japanese are being employed by some American companies, and this competition is hurting the American fishermen. The Japanese are working for lower wages and are willing to work longer hours. This is putting the American fishermen in a difficult position. The unions are trying to organize the Japanese workers, but they are having difficulty because of the low wages and the long hours.

SAN FRANCISCO—Since early in May the Tugboat Union of the Pacific and the Maritime Federation, Workers and Vendors of Wages and Amenities of the Tugboats in the West Coast have been conducting an organizing campaign in the West Coast ports. The campaign has been so successful that it is now a matter of fact that all West Coast ports have organized, and are not yet under union control. This has been made possible by the fact that there is no national organization to control of national resources go by the News Vendors when purchasing your daily paper. By the concerted efforts of financially able to grant these nation's landowners, and as they will exist under the new agreement. The deadline for renewal of agreements. They will bring improved conditions to the present one.

SAN FRANCISCO: April 15, 1937, between the Washington and the Toronto, the two largest vessels in the world, a steamship strike was called. The strike was the result of a disagreement between the owners and the employees. The owners wanted to cut wages and the employees refused. The strike lasted for three months, and it was finally settled by arbitration. The result was that the wages were increased and the working conditions were improved.

LABOR DAY--UNITY DAY!

A Stirring Appeal for Unbroken Ranks and a Solidarity of Action.

By Brother John C. Kucin, Secretary, Maritime Federation of the Pacific Coast.

BORN OF STRUGGLE

The old-line leaders tried to carry on as if they had in the past. The rank and file of the union saw things the other way. A few and better informed membership was active in the field. They realized and learned in past history that isolated efforts were bound to fail. They found that the only way to get results was to force the strike.

The big event, planned by the San Francisco Mediterranean Club, Art and Allied Trades, Women's Auxiliary, for Monday, September 5, will be held in San Francisco, at 8 P.M., at the Odd Fellows Hall, 612 Mission and Howard directly south of the old Opera House.

The big event will have a program of entertainment by leading national labor speakers, including the following:

Another Labor Day is here, what does it mean to the average person, what should it mean to those who lead? It is apparent from the course of events of the last few months that some confusion exists, why should this be? We maritime workers can do much to show the way and set an example for the rest of the labor movement. We can show that there is no need for the difficulties and squabbles that exist in other industries, if we stand united.

No divided ranks as far as the boss is concerned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30—The News-Telegraph's editors, B. F. L. and L. A., signed a contract with the present management. The contract was the culmination of fourteen weeks of negotiation. A great deal of progress was made.

A companion of conditions existing before the establishment of the new agreement, the contract will have a better tone. Under the contract the benefit will have to better tone.

FROM MRS. RAMSAY To the Editor of the Voice: Would you, at your earliest convenience, look into the matter of the employment of a man at 8:30 p.m. Room "13" Ferry Building, S. American workers are good-natured about it yet, but they are stubbornly in favor of democracy. They are even more stubbornly opposed to dictatorship in all its many guises. It would be foolish to say that every man in the line of march knows all the answers. It would be equally foolish to say that the leaders know the answers either. Leaders come and go, but the rank and file goes on and on.

Inlandboaters' News and Notes

After a three and a half hour discussion, the Maritime District Council, a representative body of the I.L.A. councils, was heard by the C.I.O. on Labor Day. The council was formed by the I.L.A. to negotiate the terms of a new contract and to prevent strikes. The council was held at the time of the I.L.A. convention in San Francisco.

The council did not reach an agreement on the terms of the new contract, but it did agree that only baggage and mail will be worked on Labor Day. A special meeting was held on Labor Day to discuss the strike.

The strike was halted by a vote of the council, but it was also supported by the I.L.A. The council was held at the time of the I.L.A. convention in San Francisco.

LABOR DAY - UNITY DAY

Under the leadership of the Alaska fishermen union, there was a strong sense of unity and solidarity among the members. They were committed to defending their rights and interests and were determined to face any challenges that might come their way. The union had been working to improve working conditions, secure better wages, and ensure the rights of its members, and the coolies represented a significant threat to these goals.
