Tobacco Millions Snared By Three Large Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tobacco companies paid $400,000 for a test market survey that showed they were selling only 100 cigarettes to each person who purchased a pack of 20 at a cost of 20 cents. The test market survey was conducted by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

The FTC used the results of the test market survey to prove that the tobacco companies were violating the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act, which prohibits the sale of tobacco products to children.

The three tobacco companies named in the complaint are Philip Morris, Inc., American Tobacco Co., and R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

The FTC accused the tobacco companies of violating the act by selling cigarettes to persons under the age of 18.

The Portland paper which reported the story, The Oregonian, said the tobacco companies have denied the allegations and are contesting the charges.

ECONOMIC "TAILSPIN" PROVES ORGANIZATION VALUES, LEWIS SAYS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaders of the United Auto Workers union, which represents over 2 million workers in the United States and Canada, have denounced the government's economic policies as a "tailspin." They said the policies are causing economic hardship and job losses.

The union's President, Lee Iacocca, said, "We are now in a period of economic crisis, and I believe that the government is not doing enough to help the people." He added, "We need a new approach to economic policy, and I believe that the government should be doing more to help the people."
Farmers and Labor Link Hands

At a time when class co-operation between working farmers and organized labor is becoming increasingly essential in order to achieve real gains, new attempts are being made by profiteering reactionaries to blunt the effectiveness of this movement. But encouraging evidence comes from both farm and industrial workers that those who are working successfully are being united by the hard-headed common-sense of those who realize they have everything to gain from such co-operation.

The recent national convention of the Farmers' Union in Oklahoma and the recent all-out effort by organized labor to investigate their groups among employers were shown by their delegates at the recent convention to be but a step toward joint action. The statements of the delegates indicate that more than 300,000 farmers were represented and the organizers were invited to proceed with their investigations in order to determine the degree of labor-management co-operation in each field.

The nationwide drive for labor-management co-operation was launched three months ago, and has already shown results. In several states the trend toward co-operation has been evident. In Colorado, for example, over 200,000 farmers have been organized into labor-management associations, and in California, over 100,000 have been enrolled in the same movement. In both states, the farmers have shown an active interest in the work of the labor-management associations, and have been willing to cooperate with the labor unions in the interest of the farmers' and laborers' common welfare.

The farmers and laborers are determined to go forward together, and to put an end to the policy of class warfare. They are determined to see that the fruits of their co-operation are a reality, and not just a slogan. They are determined to see that their co-operation is not just a passing fancy, but a lasting movement. They are determined to see that their co-operation is not just a passing fancy, but a lasting movement.

DANGERS IN DRUGS!!

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—One of the most impending dangers to the health of the people of America is that of the misuse of medicines. The danger is not confined to the use of drugs by amateurs, but is widespread in the use of drugs by professional men. Two events of great importance to labor, both directly and indirectly, have happened recently in Washington. The United States Steel Corporation has filed briefs in the Supreme Court, holding that the value of any public utility franchise, however large it may be, is not chargeable by it as the actual productive investment; and holding the courts to a more exact rule in a case very soon to be heard.
