26 Tankers Grant Union Contracts

New York, Feb. 1—The Maritime Union of America and the American Seamen's Union have received the contract for shipping 26 tankers to Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania. The agreement was reached after a week of negotiations.

These agreements mark the beginning of the strike in the maritime industry, with the unions gaining jurisdiction over the tankers.

The Federation has signed contracts with all the major shipping companies, including the National Steamship Association, American Line, and the Canadian Line. The labor troubles in the maritime industry continue to escalate, with the Federation demanding better working conditions and pay for its members.

In conclusion, the Federation has secured significant victories in its negotiations with the shipping companies, paving the way for further gains in the maritime industry.

Collective Bargaining Pays

Collective bargaining is essential for the workmen of an industry not only the democratic and orderly method of procedure, it not only the method required by law and increasingly by demands of all employees, but it is also the modern and intelligent personnel policy and good business.

This realization is growing increasingly upon corporations, as it is upon all workers, and it is a realization which has never before been equaled. It is a realization that has been growing in intensity with the operation of union agreements with the C.L.O.

Consider the following testimony from a prominent member of the C.L.O. Executive Committee, as quoted in the "New York Times," on the occasion of the Labor Day celebration of 1937: "I think it is necessary that we should accept the decision of the courts.

"The American people have been and are being fought by a group of employers who, as well as the American Labor Council, are determined to prevent the formation of labor unions and to keep the workers in the state of anarchy.

"It is not only for the benefit of the workers but also for the benefit of the employers that these negotiations have taken place.

Shipowners Greed Shows
in Report Of Crew Forced To Work Crowded Liner

The following report will never be the subject of a second hearing. As a fact, it says it all. The writer has been, and for a long time has been, a member of the Maritime Union of America.

The report is a part of the evidence of the Hague Harbors and Bays Committee of the American Maritime Congress. It was adopted by that body on its first meeting. It contains the findings of the committee, which were based upon the report of the British Harbors Committee. The report of the British Harbors Committee was not published in the United States, and therefore the American Maritime Congress was the first to publish it.

The report of the American Maritime Congress is a striking example of the importance of international cooperation in the interest of labor. It is a clear manifestation of the fact that the world's labor is working together for the betterment of its condition.

The American Maritime Congress has been a strong advocate of international cooperation in the interest of labor. Its members have been active in the work of the International Labor Congress, and have taken a prominent part in the work of the International Labor Union.

The report of the American Maritime Congress is a clear manifestation of the fact that the world's labor is working its condition.

Maritime Federation of the Pacific

City Hall

Principal of these two celebrated events was the celebration on Saturday, January 14, of the 125th anniversary of the founding of the United States. This event was attended by a large number of individuals, both from the local area and from throughout the nation.

The main attraction of the celebrations was the parade, which started at 10 a.m. sharp. The parade was led by a large group of floats, including one representing the history of the United States, another representing the growth of San Francisco, and a third representing the role of the maritime industry in the city.

As the parade continued, the crowd followed along, cheering and clapping for the participants. The floats were followed by numerous marching bands and costumed performers, each representing a different aspect of the history and culture of the United States.

The finale of the parade was a grand firework display, which lit up the sky and brought the celebrations to a close.

Throughout the day, there were also a number of speeches and presentations made by prominent figures from the maritime industry, including speeches by the Mayor of San Francisco and the President of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

Overall, the celebrations were a great success, and provided an excellent opportunity for the community to come together and celebrate the rich history and culture of the United States.
GALLEY NOTES ALONG THE FRONT
ILWU 1-19

By REVIEWS CAYTON and IVY DVORIN

During the past week on the waterfront, the rank and file of the ILWU, members of the various locals, were busy with the preparations for the strike

I have always been in touch with the membership of the International Longshoremen's Association for it can be easily seen that they did not know who they were among the 'bolters' of the Inlandboatmen's Sailors' Union of the Pacific, who did not have guts enough to come out in the open and avow that they attempted to put over the amendment. There was no doubt that they won.

WASHINGTON—Legislation permitting municipalities to establish their own milk distributing systems was urged this week by the American Labor Party. It was heard here, as its effect was forecast by Labor-leaded legislators.

That a municipally-owned milk system would be of great advantage to farmers while setting up the basis for the type of business which is being carried on by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which controls, what it calls, the milk marketing in the U. S.

To connect with this situation, the executive committee of the Milk Marketing Board, which was formed last spring, prepared to take action against the address which was delivered by the American Labor Party of this week.

WILL LOWER PRICES

If the plan is accepted, it is estimated that operations could be reduced to 1.65 cents per quart and that the product could be sold at a price of 25 cents per quart on the market. This situation, however, is not expected to affect the price of milk, which is controlled by 2.5 cents per quart, or to affect the price of live hogs, which is controlled by 3.5 cents per quart.

The government investigation also showed that under the public health regulations different companies make a distinction in price, based on the average 1.2 cents per quart which was paid for milk by consumers in Milwaukee. Under the proposed municipal plan it is stated that such price would be approximately 1.2 cents per quart.

REDUCED TAXES

Under the united plan, it is expected that delivery costs would be from the average of 50 cents per quart to 3 cents per quart. It is claimed that these savings would be considerable, because the city would be able to save on this basis.

The government investigation revealed that the average cost of the milk sold by the city was 2 cents per quart, while the average cost of the milk sold by the government was 1.65 cents per quart.

The government investigation further revealed that the average price of milk was 1.65 cents per quart, while the average price of milk sold by the government was 1.65 cents per quart. The investigation also revealed that the average cost of milk was 1.65 cents per quart, while the average cost of milk sold by the government was 1.65 cents per quart.
