Supreme Court, In Tune With Times, Reviews Year's Record

By HENRY ZON

WASHINGTON—In the past year the Supreme Court has been heard from, in one way or another, 169 times since its opening on October 3. It has been busier than ever, and its interest is as wide as its findings are high. It is doing its best to do a number of things, from police work to state regulation, and it is doing them well.

There is no need to enter into details about the Court, its rulings or the Supreme Court's role as a court of last resort. The Court has been around for a long time, and its decisions are usually well-reasoned and well-considered. It is an important institution in the legal system, and its decisions can have a significant impact on the lives of people around the world.

The Court's decisions are often controversial, and the public often disagrees with them. However, the Court is an important part of the legal system, and it is important that people understand its role and its decisions.

The Supreme Court's decisions are often based on precedent, which is the principle that a court's decision should be consistent with previous decisions. This means that the Court's decisions are often based on previous decisions made by the Court, and this can make it difficult for people to understand the Court's decisions.

However, the Court is an important part of the legal system, and its decisions are often well-reasoned and well-considered. It is important that people understand the Court's role and its decisions.

San Francisco, Calif. June 1, 1938.

Voice of the Federation
San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Judge Rasmussen,

Enclosed herewith is a copy of the report that the Brotherhood of Clerks and Tally Boys submitted last week to the San Francisco Police Department. The report contained a statement of the charges against the telephone line operators. This is the first time in over 20 years that the Brotherhood has had occasion to file such a report.

The facts are as follows: On June 1, 1938, at approximately 9:30 P.M., a number of persons entered the police station at the intersection of 14th and Mission Streets in San Francisco. They were armed with clubs and sticks and appeared to be on the lookout for members of the Brotherhood.

A police officer, who had been on duty at the station, reported that he saw the group approach and that they were carrying clubs and sticks. He also said that they were shouting epithets and threats of violence.

The officer then went out of the station and saw the group retreating. He returned to the station and reported what had happened. The report was immediately forwarded to the headquarters of the Brotherhood in San Francisco.

The Brotherhood has always been opposed to the use of violence as a means of settling industrial disputes. We believe that the only way to settle such disputes is by peaceful means, such as arbitration or negotiation.

We are confident that the police will do their best to protect the Brotherhood and its members. We also ask your co-operation in this matter.

Yours truly,

Z. R. Brown, Secretary.
