W. U. Convention Opens Fight Against Fink Halls; Employers Chiseling

"An Injury To One Is An Injury To All"

San Francisco—The AFL's largest labor convention opened its 25th session today, with a stirring denunciation of U. S. government activity to build fink halls.

"We are united again," Watchman declared.

Watchman On Unity

Alexander Watchman, President of the San Francisco Marine Trades Council and Business Manager of the Council's United Marine Trades, brought the delegates to their feet, in the first standing ovation of the convention.

"It is a common thing to be allied with the longshore workers," Watchman said as he recalled how he had worked with them. "Our strike, the walkout of the dock workers, attended as it was by the United Nations, was built up."

"As far as labor is concerned it has the same ideals as the Federation. It is a common thing to be allied with the longshore workers, attended as it was by the United Nations, was the forward march of the United States."

Watchman outlined two instances where labor in the Pacific Northwest has met and exulted in the progress of the United Nations, the Baker Act on bech work project.

"We have been working in this state in the anti-Soviet work, all through the state, the United States, and the world."

Watchman pointed out that this fight against the establishment of Kinks Halls would be one of the major questions before the convention.

"A complete repeal of the last of the resolution of the W. U. convention will be carried in the Voice of the Federation next week.

MALONE SPEAKS ON UNITY

V. H. Malone, secretary of the MFOWW, spoke to the delegates on unity for September.

EDITORIAL

Peaceful labor relations on the waterfront are necessary to the economic progress of the nation. The Maritime Federation of the Pacific, through the American Communications Association, the National Marine Organizers Association, the National Maritime Union, the Seafarer's Union of America, the Seamen's Service Bureau of the United States, and the Seafarer's Union of the World, has been successful in securing a peaceful labor movement on the West Coast. This success has been possible because of the cooperation of all the labor unions involved.

ON THE LEGISLATIVE FRONT

There are several important bills pending in Congress that will affect the labor movement. The Wagner Act, which guarantees the right of workers to organize and bargain collectively, is one of these bills. The act was passed in 1935 and has been in effect ever since. It has been highly successful in bringing about peaceful labor relations on the waterfront.

ON THE FRONT

Today in Folsom prison a slight man with a prominent bald spot is on trial for his life. His name is J. B. McNamara, and he is accused of murder. The trial is being held in the Folsom State Prison, about 50 miles northeast of Sacramento.

The McNamara case is of great importance to the labor movement. McNamara was a member of the IWW, and he was tried and convicted of murder in 1911. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, but the court upheld the conviction.

Roosevelt Thanked For Plea

President Roosevelt has been thanked for his efforts in obtaining the release of J. B. McNamara. McNamara was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1911 for the murder of a man named J. B. McNamara, and he has been serving his sentence in the Folsom State Prison ever since.

Women's Column

Women are playing an increasingly important role in the labor movement. The International Labor Defense, an organization dedicated to the defense of labor prisoners, has been successful in obtaining the release of many labor prisoners.

President Bridges Reports On Unity Thru Federation and On September 30 Contracts

Our organization has retained its identity as a separate and distinct union and as the “Federation of the Voice of the Federation” and has been increasing steadily in membership, without any decrease in its financial support and with the full support of the ILWU and its members. The ILWU has increased its number of members and has been showing an upward trend in its financial support. The ILWU has increased its number of members and has been showing an upward trend in its financial support.

Brother Eugene Spies, Secretary of the ILWU Convention in Los Angeles, has been appointed as the President of the Convention. The Convention is held in Los Angeles, California, from March 25th to April 1st, 1937.

Bridges stated that what we could meet and negotiate with the AFL and other unions in order to improve the working conditions and the wages of longshoremen would be of the utmost importance.

ILWU Convention Greeted By Federation and the “Voice of the Federation” and the ILWU put its full weight behind the ILWU and its members.

Our legislative efforts have been coupled with white political action of all maritime workers. The columns of the “Voice” have been carrying this program to the members.
