FBI Improves Witness ‘Memory’

Well, Yes and Then Again No, They Testify

SAN FRANCISCO.—More witnesses dug up by the FBI out of the courthouse here to testify against Harry Bridges have been called by the defense. Among those called this morning was Dorothy Loveshoe, who said that Bridges was brought to her home by Harry Adams, Portland longshoreman, and that they were looking for defense information about the trial.

When asked if Adams was a Communist, she said, "Yes, and I used to be one, too." The jury was cautioned against assuming any one was guilty until conviction by the jury.

Call for Aid to Defense of Webster-Smallman

The CONVICTION of Bert Webster and Claude Smallman of second degree murder cannot be characterized as anything but a tragic miscarriage of justice.

At no time during the trial was it proved that these two union members were responsible for the death of a notorious waterfront goon. John L. McLaughlin.

It has been reported that the real reason the jurors brought in a verdict of second degree murder was because the prosecution finally conceded that is impossible for a man or woman to get away with the murder of a Negro if there is a negro on the jury in the South.

There is little doubt that in an appeal of the case, or in a new trial, the Webster-Smallman case will ask on April 25, this anti-strike conviction will be reversed.

The conviction is a sad commentary on the American system which is based upon the due process of law. But it is most improbable that a man or woman can get away with the murder of a negro if there is a negro on the jury in the South.

Editor of the VOICE:

One of the methods by which the vast army of peace workers are at work is by writing letters to the editor of newspapers. This method is very effective in bringing about changes in public opinion. The editor of a newspaper is often a person who is in a position to influence public opinion, and by writing a letter to the editor, a peace worker can help to bring about changes in public opinion.

Another method by which the vast army of peace workers are at work is by organizing peace groups. These peace groups are often able to influence public opinion, and by organizing peace groups, a peace worker can help to bring about changes in public opinion.

A recent example of this method is the formation of the American Friends Service Committee. This organization was formed in 1923, and it has been very effective in bringing about changes in public opinion. The American Friends Service Committee is a non-profit organization that is dedicated to peace, justice, and freedom. The organization has a wide range of activities, including education, advocacy, and direct action. The American Friends Service Committee is a very effective organization, and it has been able to bring about changes in public opinion.

Malone and Oldenburg Oppose Referendum

San Francisco — Secretary Malone and Assistant Secretary Oldenburg of the Marine Firemen's Union have both expressed their opposition to the Referendum on Conference Proposals.

Secretary Malone stated:

"I believe the Referendum on Conference Proposals is a step in the wrong direction. It would give the membership a false sense of control over the affairs of the union, and would lead to a decrease in the efficiency of the union's operation."

Assistant Secretary Oldenburg added:

"I agree with Secretary Malone. The Referendum on Conference Proposals would be a disaster for the union. It would be a step backward, and would result in a loss of control over the union's affairs by the membership."
